Airport picks up three new awards in first two weeks of October

The first was presented by international periodical, TIME, on 6 October 2004. Changi Airport topped the list as "Favourite Asian Airport", ahead of Hong Kong's Chek Lap Kok and Malaysia's Kuala Lumpur International Airport in the 4th Annual TIME Readers' Choice Travel Awards. Nearly 2,500 TIME readers across the region cast their votes in the yearly survey and some 70 per cent of them chose Changi Airport. Changi Airport has emerged in the top spot since the annual awards were launched in 2001.

Changi Airport received its second international recognition in the month of October at the annual Telegraph Travel Awards ceremony held on 11 October 2004 in London. Readers of UK newspapers, The Daily Telegraph & The Sunday Telegraph, singled out Changi Airport for the 'Best International Airport' award. This marked the seventh year that Changi Airport is receiving this award. The newspapers describe the Telegraph Travel Awards as an event to highlight the best that travel can offer. To collate the rankings, some 25,000 readers were surveyed on their travel habits.

On 12 October in Bangkok, Changi Airport collected the 'Hall of Fame - Airport' award from Travel Trade Gazette (TTG) Asia, a travel industry publication in the Asia-Pacific. The Hall of Fame award recognizes travel organizations which have won the Travel Awards for at least 10 times. Changi Airport has been a member of the hall of fame in the TTG Asia Travel Awards since 2002.
